FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 9.

Celef Justice Marshall. This great jurist has had related of him many amusing anecdotes, but the following reveals a trait in his character which but few persons suspected him of possessing. It occurred but a few years before the death of It occurred but a few years before the death of that great man, and was told to the writer by C. C. SEMMES, the gentleman who at that time had charge of the Law Library, which is a part, and now a very important part, of the Congressional Library. Not long anterior to the time to which reference is now had, the volumes composing the Law Library occupied but a small space, and were very conveniently arranged upon a few shelves, but they had increased in number until, for want of room, they had become closely packed and jammed, so that it was not very easy to remove one without disturbing others. Such was the condition of things when the venerable Chief Justice made his appearance and inquired for the work of a certain author, which he wished to consult. The librarian pointed out the book, and was about to reach up for it when the old chief, who always declined the services of another in any matter he could attend to himself, insisted upon reaching for the book, stating that he was the taller of the two, and could reach it without difficulty. He did reach it; but, in attempting to pull it out from among its companions, he brought a dozen or more along with it, which, striking the old gentleman, knocked him flat upon the floor. The librarian at once rushed to his assistance and inquired if he was hurt, to which he replied, "No, not hurt; but I never was so floored by law before in my life." He sat still on the floor where he had fallen until he had examined the book to his satisfaction, when he arose, handed it to the librarian, and quietly

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5. - Washington GETTING HIS LIQUOR. -Some time ago Huntsville, Alabama, was under municipal law, permitting only druggists to sell intoxicating liquors, and then only by a written order from a physician. It happened on a cold, rainy day, that a fast chap, whose name might have been Johnson, a drummer from a New York dry geods house, dropped into Huntsville, and, after stopping at the hotel, wrote a note and sent a little darkey to the drug store for a bot tle of whiskey. The boy returned minus the whiskey, but with information that a physician's order would bring it. It only required a moment to add "M. D." to Johnson's name attached to the note, and the whiskey was forth coming. The next day, in conversation with Johnson, the druggist addressed him as "doctor." "Beg pardon," said Johnson, "but I ain no doctor." "But you put M. D. to your name yesterday?" "Only stood for Mighty Dry," was the cool reply.

OFFICES—Gainesville Depot, Manassas Gap Railroad, and Buckland, Prince William county, Va. William county, Va.

The subscribers having associated themselves for the purpose of buying and selling lands in Fauquier, Prince William and adjoining counties, are prepared to offer to purchasers a number of farms, containing from 200 to 1000 acres, at prices ranging from $5 to $40 per acre.—Parties desiring to locate in this State, will do well to examine the lands we offer before purchasing elsewhere chasing elsewhere. Will attend the depot at Gainesville, and at Buckland daily, and be prepared to take care of and show parties the property we offer.

This immediate vicinity offers great inducements in the way of rail and turnpike roads to the markets of Alexandria, Georgetown and Washington, distant 35 to 40 miles, and from 5 to 8 miles from Warrenton, on the Orange and Alexandria R. R., the county seat of Fauquier. No section of the State possesses greater advantages for grazing, fruit culture and farming, its nearness to market enabling producers to place in the above market daily the surplus products of fruits, vegetables, &c.

Flour and grists mills are numerous. At Buckland, 3 miles from Gainesville, a large woollen factory is in successful operation, affording a home market for wool and other products. The water and health of this section is unsurpassed. We will be glad to furnish information to all parties desiring it, with full descriptions of the lands. Terms of sale will be liberal. Address, BALL & TYLER, P. O. Gainesville Depot, Prince William co., Va.
